Mayors consider county landfill

The Scott County Mayors Association discussed plans for establishing a county sanitary landfill and heard Ron Yersak of Malden, planning director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, stress the importance of planning to community and area development in a meeting Tuesday night at Ramada Inn.

The mayors voted unanimously to accept phase one of a proposal submitted by a committee appointed to study the landfill proposal.

The committee's phase one proposal calls for the County Court to establish a county- wide sanitary landfill, located in the approximate geographical center of the county, and offer use of the facility to every household, commercial establishment, industry, professional office or publicly owned facility residing or doing business in Scott County at no service charge at the site of the facility.

The committee said the cost of the service will have to be established by the populace of the county.. A reasonable price should be charged and paid to the county by each rural establishment individually, and by each incorporated community collectively, to establish the first year's operating budget of the facility.

Chargeable units, as considered by the committee, include:

Each home, apartment or living quarters with kitchen facilities, regardless of the number of units under one roof should be considered as one unit. Each commercial business, regardless of the number under one roof, should be considered as one unit; and each professional establishment should be considered as one unit regardless of the number housed under one roof.

The committee said city-owned buildings should be considered as one unit, regardless of the number of departments under one roof. Warehouses and water plants are not to be considered, the committee said.

The mayors said their

Sapp resigns school post

The Sikeston R- 6 School District board of education Tuesday accepted the resignation of William R. Sapp, assistant principal and athletic director at Sikeston High School.

Sapp, head football coach from 1952 to 1969, told board members he was resigning for health reasons.

Supt. Sam Harbin said today the board members expressed their appreciation for the valuable service Sapp has contributed to the district.

Bill Ryan, owner of Ryan Construction Co., contractor for the new junior high school, told the board that if all materials arrive on schedule, the new school can be occupied by the middle or end of December.

Ryan noted a six- week delay in receiving bricks but stated that 90 per cent of the masonry is now completed. Over 16,000 square feet of the roof have been completed, and he said the roof should be finished in two to three weeks.

Harbin announced the 1973- 74 enrollment by units. Total enrollment is 4,832, with the breakdown as follows: Southeast Elementary, 469; kindergarten, 337; Matthews Elementary, 279; Lee Hunter Elementary, 505; Morehouse Learning Center, 71; Southwest Elementary, 442; Morehouse Elementary, 276; junior high, 1154; high school, 1,317; and adult education, 130.

The enrollment at Morehouse includes kindergarten through the fifth grade and one class of sixth graders.

Harbin told the board that a one- year curriculum study is being made to examine the educational objective guide lines prescribed for the state of Missouri and determine if they are being met in the Sikeston school district. Harbin said chances are good that changes may be made to amend the present program.

Dr. Richard King, curriculum specialist for the State Department of Education, will conduct a workshop here for teachers, students and parents sometime in October, Harbin said.

The board discussed a program for public early childhood education. School personnel is now gathering data for the program should it become a state law.

The program, if passed, would probably consist of added teachers to work with parents and three- to- four-year- old children in the home with a half- day or one full day formal class at the school.

A census of the handicapped in the school district is scheduled to be completed Nov. 1 and sent to the State Department of Education.

The board of education will advertise in an effort to seek out the handicapped and determine the type of handicap with the thought that within the year public school systems will be responsible for the education of handicapped in its district.

The Sikeston district is one of 40 chosen for survey by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to see if the district is complying with the 1964 Civil Rights Act and the Educational Amendment Act of 1972 which concerns sex discrimination among workers in federal assistance programs.

Bids on the house built by the vocational building trades class on Dona Street at Ables Road are now being accepted by the board of education. Bids may be submitted to the board, in care of Charles Simpson, business manager. Bids are due Sept. 26.

An advisory committee meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. today in the high school cafetorium. The committee, made up of citizens, teachers and students, listens to and suggest ideas to improve the school system.

Satellite headquarters open by Oct. 1

State Rep. C. F. Cline of Sikeston announced today that present plans for establishing a satellite highway patrol headquarters in Sikeston call for the station to open by Oct. 1, instead of mid- November as previously announced.

Cline made the announcement at a noon meeting of the Lions Club at the Travelodge Motel.

Cline said that plans now call for the naming of a lieutenant to command the new Troop E. satellite headquarters and to have the radio communications equipment in operation by Oct. 1.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's edition of The Daily Standard that John Tanner was fined $15 and costs after being found guilty in Magistrate Court Tuesday on charges of dumping trash on the farm of John Wilson. It should have read that Walter Kearby of Sikeston was fined $15 and costs after being found guilty of dumping trash on the John L. Eggiman resigns at Kelly

BENTON— Richard L. Eggiman, principal of Thomas W. Kelly Elementary and Thomas W. Kelly Middle School, today announced his resignation from the R- 4 School System, effective at the end of the 1973- 74 school year.

Eggiman has been principal of Kelly for six years-- five consecutive and one in the 1963- 64 school year.

Eggiman said today that the greatest changes that have taken place in his tenure include the elimination of wing schools (several small elementary schools within the district), the conversion of curriculum to set up a school offering special classes and a new 44,000 square foot school plant.

Eggimann's future plans are indifinte, however, he is expanding his real estate business and rental land holdings. He plans to set up a construction company in the near future.

Downs named acting Charleston manager

CHARLESTON-- In executive session following the regular meeting Tuesday night, the City Council appointed Willis Downs acting city manager until a new manager is employed to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Richard Martin which becomes effective Friday.

Downs, who is the city's acting engineer, will serve in both positions until a new manager is hired.

A resolution designating Downs as the city's agent for federal disaster funds was approved.

Resolutions calling for the advertisement of portions of North Heggie and Green streets for paving were approved.

The council also agreed to advertise for bids for the installation of a sanitary sewage lift station in industrial park.

Two houses in the urban renewal total clearance area which were turned over to the city will be advertised for sale. Manager Martin informed the council that one is a standard house at 103 Elm St. and the other house at 701 Vine St. could be restored for a nominal fee.

An ordinance calling for the development of a public park on the old Lincoln School property was adopted. The old school building which was bought by the Housing Authority, has been converted into a community center and an office for the Housing Authority. The city will also

Jaycees to donate $7,000 for ambulances

The Sikeston Jaycees Tuesday night voted to donate $7,000 to the City of Sikeston, to be matched by federal funds to purchase emergency ambulances for the city.

A Jaycee spokesman said this morning that the Jaycees will donate $3,500 on each of two ambulances. The Jaycee organization, hospital and city administration officials hope attendants for the vehicles will be trained also through a federally funded program.

The attendants will hold other full-time jobs and will be paid only for services rendered. Patients will be charged for use of the ambulance.

City manager Jim Huff said this morning that area hospitals agreed that each would be responsible for getting its own ambulances and for their maintenance. Each will also service their own area.

"The idea is this," Huff said, "to make each unit self supporting. No one agency will be a burden for the area indigent, and all services will be divided equally in the various counties and areas", he said.

Hospital administrator Harold Jones and assistant Administrator Pat Jones were unavailable for comment.

Bob's wholesale burglarized

Police are investigating a burglary at Bob's Wholesale Warehouse at the corner of West North and Bowman streets about midnight Tuesday in which merchandise valued at over $600 was taken and where a policeman fired six shots after hearing someone fleeing from the building.

Taken were black leather barrel chairs valued at $290, black leather loveseats valued at $198, four metal folding tables valued at $120 and an unknown number of men's suits.

Investigating officer L. K. DuBose said that on a routine patrol he noticed that a metal sliding door at the southwest end of the warehouse appeared to be slightly opened. DuBose entered the building and while still inside he heard on his patrol car radio about 30 minutes later that another patrol car was being sent to the warehouse.

DuBose said he then heard rapid footsteps toward the west end of the building and gave pursuit, firing six shots at the fleeing burglar, who escaped through a northwest door.

DuBose said no forced entry was made and that possibly the door had been left unlocked.

4 sentenced on guilty pleas

NEW MADRID — Four pleaded guilty and were sentenced on criminal charges in Circuit Court Tuesday before Judge William L. Ragland.

Jerry Wayne Ueltzen of St. Louis received a two- year sentence in custody of the Sate Department of Corrections on a felonious assault charge by shooting at State Highway Patrolman R. L. Ryan of Sikeston on April 28 with a 410 guage shotgun. Ueltzen was a passenger in a car Trooper Ryan had stopped on Interstate 55 near Matthews. Ryan was not injured.

Tommy Daniels Jr. of Catron, pleaded guilty to an amended charge of burglary. He was given a two- year sentence and placed on supervised probation. He had been charged with breaking into the home of Eliza Mae Farr with intent to ravish Jerry Ann Farr. A charge of exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon against Daniels was dismissed.

Johnny Johnson of Kewanee was granted supervised probation after receiving a two- year sentence on an amended charge of assault with intent to rape. Johnson had been charged with statutory rape of a 14- year old Lilbourn girl on June 14.

Probation without supervision was granted Thurman Johnson when he pleaded guilty to burglary and larceny charges and was given consecutive two- year sentence on each charge. Johnson was charged with the June 14 break-in and theft of merchandise from Martin Fina Station in Howardville.

Trash dumping becoming serious problem

By MARY NOLEN

If you have any plans of loading up your garbage and refuse and taking it out on a county road to dump it, you may change your mind after reading this article. Strong action is being taken by city and county officials to stop people from dumping their trash where it doesn't belong.

According to figures released by C. P. Bennett, district maintenance and traffic engineeer for the State Highway Department who said it cost residents of Scott County a total of $6,105 to pick up the trash and refuse along the highways from June 1972 through May 1973.

"It's getting a lot worse", Bennett said. "Our men are spending their time picking up trash when they could be doing more constructive things. As the traffic increases so does the litter," he added.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Steve Taylor said three complaints have been filed against violators who have been caught dumping trash along county roads and highways. "Of the three filed, we have had convictions on two, and the third was a juvenile who was turned over to the juvenile officer."

Taylor said the penalty, when found guilty of dumping trash, is a fine of not less than $25 and not over $500, or a jail sentence of up to one year, or both.

During the last six months, Sheriff John Dennis said trash being dumped on roads has doubled. "People are throwing trash in fields, private property side ditches or just anywhere it's convenient.

"We are trying to wake the people up to the fact that this is a serious problem and have asked for their cooperation," Dennis said, then asked that anyone seeing someone dumping trash to report it to the sheriff's department.

Les Lankford of Chaffee, presiding judge of the Scott County Court, said the court has had signs printed quoting the law that prohibits the dumping of refuse and the fine that can be imposed.

"In some cases, especially in the north part of the county we have stopped some of the dumping," Lankford said. He added that it is hard to enforce the dumping law because you just about have to see someone dumping the trash in order to prove who the guilty party is.

"You may hire someone to take your trash off for you and they may dump it in the middle of the road, and you would not be the guilty party," he said.

"We have, in some instances, watched a particular road where people were dumping trash to find out who the violators were, then made them clean it up," Lankford said.

Lankford said he thinks that when the state solid waste law goes into effect next year, the problem will get worse.

Cpl. Mendell Clark of the Missouri State Highway Patrol reported one incident in which someone dumped six plastic bags in a ditch. "We went through the trash, found a name and turned it over to the prosecutor," Clark said.

Clark added that the site to which the violator drove to dump the trash would have cost more in car expense than to have taken it to a sanitary landfill and dumped it for a small fee.

Sikeston Police Chief Leon Culp said the police department had not had much trouble with people dumping within the city limits. "However, if we do start getting reports, we will really crack down because it's not fair for one man to take care of someone else's garbage," he said.

Anyway you look at it, dumping trash on county roads or public highways is costing the people of Scott County their own tax money to have it cleaned up. The slovenly habits of a small percentage of people in the county are costing funds desperately needed for other improvements.

The $6,105 spent last year to pick up refuse could have been used more constructively.

Scott Countians are urged by all county and city officials to keep trash in its place and to report immediately any instances of unlawful dumping, the only way it can be stopped.

Dumping becomes problem

Dumping trash on county roads and public highways has become a serious problem in Scott County. This picture shows where someone dumped trash on another person's property rather than pay a trash collector to haul it to an approved sanitary landfill.

Our congratulations to City Manager Huff on his naming Leon Culp as city police chief. We haven't heard anything but good things about Culp since he took Bruce's place and some of his actions lately has really been okay with everybody that I have talked to or said anything about him. They've said that that is one of the things that Culp can put down on his calendar as being a number one thing. We think it is good because it will increase the moral of the police force they see if that if they tend strickly to duty that they have a chance of being promoted and that is something that doesn't very often happen.

According to a report, some families in Burlington, Wisconsin, conducted an experiment to see how they could get along if a crippling energy shortage developed. They used candles for light, did not use any electrical appliances, left their cars in the garage and generally pretended the worst had happened. Perhaps some of the government officials who deal with energy problems should have participated, too. If they knew what it was like to do without gasoline and electricity, maybe it wouldn't take three years, as it often does now, to get through the red tape and obtain a license for a new power station. Do you think they still would take as long to decide if Alaska's ecology would be disturbed by an oil pipeline in the Arctic? We doubt it.

THAN YOU KNOW

Meanwhile, back on the campus some thought is being given as to acquainting motorists with the consequences of the overemphasis on private vehicles in terms they can best understand — the cost in dollars and cents, mostly the former.

Most people have no conception of the economic realities of the public roads, according to a Massachusetts Institute of Technology researcher. They think the roads are there, therefore use is free.

Far from it, says Dr. David Gordon Wilson. In terms of essential services, such as traffic direction and road maintenance, and of social consequences, such as urban congestion, the actual cost of driving can be up to $2 more per mile than a driver contributes in gasoline and other taxes for use of the roads.

He suggests installation in U. S. cars of a meter developed in Britain in bring home the economic facts of driving. If drivers were actually charged the additional $2 a mile (for rush-hour travel), he suggests, the results might be dramatic.

Revolutionary might be more like it.

No group was even close to the facts. You see, the average profit, after taxes, is only about four cents on the dollar. Profits, however, are the key to the success of the U. S. economy. Profits create jobs, build new plants, develop new products and finance expansion. Business needs profits ... and so do its employees."

After some viewing of the Ervin Committee's investigation and questioning of witnesses on television, we are among those who wonder about the purpose of the seven senators to expose wrongdoing while using an unwarranted amount of personal showmanship and levity.

If we are undergoing a political reformation, a sense of high seriousness is due. Instead of seriousness, there is an obvious amount of sadism and, now revenge wears a political cap, since special prosecutor Archibald Cox got his appointment from Democrats in the Senate to kill off Republicans.

Some of the so-called prosecution go at their work with the relish that befits a lynch mob, and this is true of the Nixon- hating press and its counterpart in the television networks.

The American "system" does have the means of saving itself and us, but it has to be given a chance. Vindictiveness is the opposite of rehabilitation which we hear to be the purpose of American justice.

The concerned American must ask himself if the real interest is in self- reform or self- destruction.

IT'S STILL 'SPARE ROD, SPOIL CHILD'

The flogging of wives and sailors has been banned for a hundred years. Mental hospitals and prisons prohibit the physical punishment of their inmates.

"But corporal punishment in the schools remains as much a part of the American way as the 'I speak for Democracy' contest or the Thanksgiving pageant."

So claims Diane Divoky, writing in the new magazine, Learning. The schools, she says, are the last institution in our society in which beating is legal, and support for it is shared by teachers, administrators and parents alike.

In a 1969 survey by the National Education Assn., for example, 65 per cent of the elementary schoolteachers and 55 per cent of the secondary schoolteachers polled favored "judicious use" of bodily punishment.

A survey by Grade Teachers magazine found that nearly half the respondents had used corporal punishment during the preceding school year; 20 per cent had employed it more than five times.

After schools in Pittsburgh prohibited spanking, 73 per cent of the system's teachers signed a petition asking the ban be lifted.

A 1971 poll of school administrators by Nation's Schools magazine found that corporal punishment was applied in 74 per cent of the responding districts and that 64 per cent of the administrators felt that it was "an effective educational instrument in assuring discipline."

Parents may favor corporal punishment even more than teachers, says Miss Divoky. In a 1970 Gallup poll, 62 per cent of the parents of public school students wanted spanking in the schools.

She quotes a report by the American Civil Liberties Union:

"As the situation now stands, corporal punishment may be visited upon schoolchildren for the 'crime' of talking without permission or not dressing for gym, but not upon felons convicted of such major crimes as rape, armed robbery or murder and who have, in fact, received the benefit of due process in the courts."

Despite a few successful suits brought by students or parents against teachers who administered damaging beatings, the courts have not begun to accept the argument that due process or the Eighth Amendment protection against cruel and unusual punishment applies to school children.

"In the year 1973," says Miss Divoky, "corporal punishment is alive and well in an astounding number of U. S. schools and will probably remain so until judges, teachers, parents, a administrators and the public at large decide that society has finally become civilized enough to drop child beating from its prescribed curriculum."

KOWTOWING IS OUT OF STYLE, PEKING!

The Chinese government has protested "strongly and formally," reports the New York Times, against that paper's acceptance of political advertisements from anti - Peking Chinese and from the Chiang Kai-shek government on Taiwan.

Chou Nan, counselor of the Peking mission to the United Nation, informed the Times' managing editor, A. M. Rosenthal, that the printing of editorial advertisements from "reactionary" Chinese was an "unfriendly act" that worked against the improvement of understanding between the Chinese and American peoples as well as against the exchange of newsmen between the two countries.

Literal translation of the last phrase: Unless the Times got in line, its application to open a bureau in Peking would not be granted.

The newspaper, of course, refused to change its long-standing policy of keeping its advertising columns open to all comers, regardless of whether it agreed or disagreed with their politics or philosophy, and refusing ads only on the grounds of fraud or deception, obscenity or incitement to racial or religious hatred or lawbreaking.

The Times, explained Mr. Rosenthal, believes freedom of the press to be essential to American society and regards political advertising as an integral element in a free press.

At least two other newspapers have printed the same or similar advertisements, but possibly because of its prestige — possibly as a test case? — the New York Times is the only one the Chinese have complained to.

Now that it has been explained to them just how the American press operates, one hopes that in the interest of promoting understanding between the American people and themselves, they will drop the matter.

If not, then other newspapers, especially those who have also made application to open bureaus in Peking, as well as wire services and syndicates, should make it clear to the Chinese that if one American newspaper's journalists are barred because of a failure to tailor editorial policies to suit Peking, then all will consider themselves barred.

After all, kowtowing was supposed to have gone out with the emperors.

BETTER OFF THAN WE THINK

Higher beef prices -- a particularly sharp thorn in the side of most household food budgets -- have been caused by many things. Relatively heavy demand for feed grains due to foreign sales, weather delayed harvests, and the general progression of inflation continually fired by federal government deficit spending have had their effect. One of the most important factors is high consumer demand for beef. And here is the key point. Supply and demand in the marketplace set the price for beef regardless of farmer-rancher cost of production.

As an authority in the industry has pointed out, beef, unlike most manufactured products, has a fluctuating price level. It goes both up and down. When supplies are reduced "... prices tend to rise because consumers are bidding against each other for available meat." Higher prices provide the incentive for farmers and ranchers to invest in bigger herds and expand their facilities. The effect of this is to increase supply which, in the long run, has the effect of bringing lower prices. All this is going on right now, but it takes 20 to 24 months to produce a 1,000 pound feedlot- finished steer ready to be sold to a packer. U. S. beef production has been boosted 2.5 times in the past 20 years, and it is estimated it will have to be doubled again by the end of the century. This can be done, but those who raise beef cattle will have to make enough from their effort to pay their cost of production plus enough profit to encourage them to expand herds and production facilities.

Now is the time for a little patience, a little shopping judgment and effort and an understanding of the incentive-producing free market forces that can be counted on to continue to produce the meat abundance to which we are accustomed. Also, it should be kept in mind that Americans still pay less of their income for food than any other people in the world.

A man is about as big as the things that make him angry.

There is very little difference in people, says Clement Stone, but that little difference makes a big difference. The little difference is attitude. The big difference is whether it is positive or negative.

Nowhere is this principle better illustrated than in the story of the young bride from the East who, during the last war, followed her husband to any Army camp on the edge of the desert in California. Living conditions were primitive at best, and he had advised against it, but she wanted to be with him.

The only housing they could find was a rundown shack near an Indian village. The heat was unbearable in the daytime — 115 degrees in the shade. The wind blew constantly, spreading dust and sand all over everything. The days were long and boring. Her only neighbors were the Indians, none of whom spoke English.

When her husband was ordered farther into the desert for two weeks of maneuvers, loneliness and the wretched living conditions got the best of her. She wrote to her mother that she was coming home — she just couldn't take any more. In a short time she received a reply which included these two lines:

Two men looked out from prison bars,
One saw mud, the other saw the stars.

She read the lines over and over and began to feel ashamed of herself. And she didn't really want to leave her husband. All right, she'd look for the stars.

In the following days she set out to make friends with the Indians. She asked them to teach her weaving and pottery. At first they were distant, but as soon as they sensed her interest was genuine they returned her friendship. She became fascinated with their culture, history — everything about them.

She began to study the desert as well, and soon it, too, changed from a desolate, forbidding place to a marvelous thing of beauty. She had her mother send her books. She studied the forms of the cacti, the yuccas and the Joshua trees. She collected sea shells that had been left there millions of years ago when the sands had been an ocean floor. Later, she became such an expert on the area that she wrote a book about it.

What had changed? Not the desert; not the Indians. Simply by changing her won attitude she had transformed a miserable experience into a highly rewarding one.

Foreign editor Louis Heren of The London Times has said, "... that the world cannot much longer afford Russian Communism ..." His remark was based on practical economics. The failure of communism to produce the essentials of life is becoming manifest. Increasing dependence of the USSR on the exports of grain and production techniques from capitalist countries are concrete indications of a failing system.

Economic hardship in a nation has always been presumed to offer maximum opportunities for communist takeovers. Ironically, the same conditions in communist countries may impel people to turn toward the opportunities and incentives of capitalism. If that happens, the professional agitators that have been so busy condeming America will be left hanging somewhere between the two systems -- hopefully as harmless as trussed-up goats.

COSTLY UNITED NATIONS
FOOLISHNESS

Twenty- eight years after its founding, the United Nations remains a strange combination of danger and absurdity. The danger lies in its potential usefulness as a tool for our enemies to destroy our sovereignty. The absurdity comes in the pretense that this organization provides any kind of fair or reasonable representation of all mankind.

The United Nations now has 132 members, nearly triple its original membership. Of those 132 member nations, each one having a vote equal to the United States in the General Assembly, 71 have fewer people than New York City. Fully 100 of them have a gross annual income less than that of the State of Connecticut.

A two- thirds majority in the General Assembly, sufficient to take even the most drastic action, can now be formed by so- called "nations" with less than 10 percent of the world's population, supplying less than 5 percent of the U. N's operating funds.

We continue to pay the bulk of all U. N. costs, regardless of ability of other countries to pay for even their own particular stake in a given program. For instance, we have been paying the largest proportion of the cost of maintaining Arab refugees in Palestine for 25 years, and continue to provide $23 million a year for that purpose, despite the fact that the oil-rich Arab countries altogether are paying only a little over $1 million a year for the relief of their own countrymen, which clearly they could afford. There is reason to believe that the U. N's irrational popularity is finally fading in the United States, to be replaced by a very well- founded skepticism. HLH

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments by a Pavement Plato:

Whatever happened to the feminine mystique?

It has become as much a casualty of the 20th century as spats, the whalebone corset, or the nickel glass of beer.

The ordinary man never knew exactly what the feminine mystique was except that it was the intangible thing that made a woman a woman—and therefore a thing apart from man and his crude world.

It was the feminine mystique that led women to dress, think and act differently. They were expected to be more fragile, daintier and smell nicer than men.

It was their feminine mystique that led women to be aloof and withdrawn and mysterious, and able to wield more power with silence and disapproval than by shouting their objections and demands.

It was their feminine mystique that enabled women to convince men that sex was more a sacred experience than a physical pleasure.

It was through this fabled feminine mystique that for centuries women convinced men they were superior human beings to be treated with veneration and respect and accorded special privileges and favors. As part of this mystique, they were even supposed to have a special mental faculty called womanly intuition that served them better than the laws of logic and reason serve men.

Yes, almost since time began the feminine mystique has been woman's mightiest weapon in the endless war between the sexes. But alas, she has rapidly lost that weapon in recent years as she chose to descend from her Olympus to slug it out in the mire toe-to-toe with man in a campaign for equal rights.

In this dubious campaign she has sought to imitate man's manners, morals, dress, value standards and even his vocabulary. A casual conversation between two teen-age girls today contains language that a truckdriver would hesitate to say out loud in a traffic jam in 103-degree weather.

If a man acts like an ape, he becomes apelike. And if a woman acts like a man, there can be but one result: she inevitably becomes manlike.

While there is nothing wrong with being a man, there is a lot wrong in being a manlike woman. She is flouting her inner being, violating the harmony of her own nature.

She is being a traitor to her own sex, and it becomes absurd to speak of her feminine mystique. She has thrown away that precious birthright.

She has no special mystery. She has no special intuition. She is just another creature in the herd, another anonymous being in harness. There is nothing to set her apart, no reason for man to give her gallant deference, no reason for him to refrain from preying on her weakness to the utmost. She is just a pseudo-woman trying to be one of the boys.

Without her feminine mystique woman can't be anything but a loser. But, alas again, once she has lost it, how can she ever get it back.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

Agnew's Pressure on Agency Helped Crony Win Contracts

WASHINGTON-- Vice President Spiro Agnew has twice pressured a small federal agency to give handsome no-bid contracts to a Maryland company run by an old friend and political campaign contributor.

The lucky company was Maps, Inc., of Baltimore, which does aerial photography and related mapping. Until his death in January 1971, its president was Thomas Collins, who had been a member of the Baltimore County Personnel and Salary Board while Agnew was the county's chief executive.

A few months after Agnew became Vice President, Collins began to seek a $121,900 air map contract with the Redevelopment Land Agency (RLA), a housing and planning agency in Washington. Aware of his old friend's new power in Washington, Collins called Agnew.

Agnew had an aide call RLA and the agency awarded the contract to Maps, Inc. One competitor protested loudly to RLA that political pressure had been exerted, but the complaint was ignored.

UNUSUAL LETTER

In 1971, RLA was preparing to award another mapping contract and the agency's executive director, Melvin Mister, got an unusual letter from Agnew's administrative assistant, Arthur Sohmer.

"Two years ago," Sohmer reminded Mister, "this office contacted you on behalf of Maps, Inc., a Baltimore firm, which had expressed an interest in doing topographic mapping for your agency."

The vice presidential message went on to praise Maps, Inc., at some length, then added pointedly: "Any consideration that you might be able to give to their interest would be appreciated by this office."

Sure enough, on September 24, exactly a month after the Agnew letter, Maps, Inc., got a fat $158,600 contract from RLA. Once again, a competing firm told RLA it had been unfairly treated.

'OUR FRIENDS'

In Dundalk, Maryland, the Baltimore suburb where Maps, Inc., is located, Mrs. Collins, who briefly succeeded her husband as president, explained: "The Agnews were our friends. Tom and Ted knew each other well. So did Judy (Agnew's wife) and I. They lived about a mile from us."

She insisted that to the best of her knowledge her late husband's political donations to Agnew were in the form of fund- raising tickets and were at most in the low hundreds.

At RLA, a spokesman said Maps, Inc., "did a good job on both contracts"-- which our study of the files tends to confirm. The spokesman said: "It was a validly awarded contract. The contacts (by Agnew's office) had no effect."

As to the propriety of a Vice President using his office to pressure a federal agency on behalf of a former crony, the RLA said, "We treated it like any other communication about a constituent."

'ROUTINE

At Agnew's office, Sohmer refused to speak to us, but a spokesman said, "We regard this very much in the nature of a routine referral. No pressure at all was intended."

In fact, such referrals are "routine" only for congressmen. When they come from the White House or Vice President, they have all the earmarks of a direct order.

FOOTNOTE: Neither the FBI nor the Justice Department have contacted RLA or Maps, Inc., in connection with the federal probe into possible kickbacks given to Agnew and other Maryland political figures.

OIL AND SECRETS: Efforts by the White House to ease the energy crisis with off-shore oil and gas drilling have run smack into the Pentagon's secret installations in the Gulf of Mexico.

Under orders from the White House, the Interior Department plans to lease huge new undersea tracts to the oil companies for exploration and production. Unfortunately, the drilling poses not only a threat to the environment, but to the Pentagon's choicest defense sites.

The Defense Department has complained that giant stationary rigs in the gulf would make low altitude flights and tests of weapons systems, including "heat-seeking" missiles, dangerous. The missiles, they fear, might even zero in on an oil rig, destroying the rig and its workers.

The Pentagon has a $1.5 billion investment in the five Florida bases. A classified congressional report bottled up in the House Appropriations Committee indicates that the bases and their 50,000 civilian and military employes might have to be moved at a staggering cost to the taxpayers of $3.4 billion.

Secret meetings between Pentagon and Interior officials have failed to reach an accommodation on auctioning lands to the oil companies. A session last month between Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton and Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clemente Jr. ended in polite disagreement.

Besides the military's objections, the Interior Department has to contend with the opposition of Gulf Coast public officials who fear a repeat of the Santa Barbara oil spill could ruin the white beaches.

Meanwhile, the Interior Department is grumbling that if its leasing plans for the gulf are thwarted, they may open up the Atlantic seaboard to offshore drilling, an even hotter political potato than the gulf controversy.

5 injured in area traffic accidents

Three area traffic accidents Tuesday, including a car- train accident near Gordonville, resulted in five injuries, the highway patrol said today.

Judith Ann Wendel, 27, of Gordonville was slightly injured at 10:10 a.m. on Route Z west of Gordonville when she pulled onto railroad tracks and her car was struck by a Missouri Pacific train in the left front, knocking the car away from the train.

Mrs. Wendel was treated for cuts and bruises and released from Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Engineer of the train was C. F. Bader of Campbell.

A bicycle rider was injured at 4:45 p.m. one-half mile north of Old Appleton on Highway 61 when he was struck by a northbound car driven by Melvin Prevallet, 44, of Perryville.

Randy Wichern, 11, of Uniontown received a broken leg when Prevallet swerved his car to the left to avoid the bike and Wichern swerved his bicycle in the same direction. The car struck the bicycle on the shoulder of the road.

Wichern was taken to Perry County Hospital in Perryville.

Three persons were injured at 11:15 p.m. on Route CC, seven and one-half miles north of Piedmont, when Darrell Skaggs, 25, of Northwoods apparently lost control of his car, ran off the road and overturned.

Injured were passengers Steven Sloan, 24, of St. Louis, neck injury and possible broken leg; Frank Teal, 23, of St. Louis, cuts and Jim Dale James, 26, of Hazelwood, cuts. All were taken to Wayne County Medical Center in Piedmont.

It's A Bird

The French call it oiseau-mouche, or fly-size bird. Spaniards and Portuguese say pica flor — peck the flower — and beija flor — kiss the flower. In the Lesser Antilles and Cuba it's named for the sound the wings make — murmures and zum-zum. Americans know them as hummingbirds.

Miss Watson bride of Van Chaney

POPLAR BLUFF — Miss Marjorie Lou Watson and Charles Van Chaney Jr. were united in marriage in a double- ring ceremony Aug. 5 at 2:30 p.m. in First Baptist Church of Poplar Bluff by the Rev. John Gilbert, assisted by Michael Parris, who gave the home dedication service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. George E. Watson of Poplar Bluff nand Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Chaney Sr. of Sikeston.

Honored guests at the wedding were the couple's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Alcorn of Sikeston and Mrs. Bertie Chaney of Vanduser, grandparents of the groom, and Mrs. R. Ward of Poplar Bluff, grandmother of the bride.

Miss Syreda Witte was organist and Miss Kathie Carringer sang "The Wedding Song", "Bless This House" and "Savior Like a Shepherd Lead Us". The groom sang "Walk Hand in Hand" to the bride after vows were repeated.

Bouquets of white carnations and gladioli decorated the church. Bob Watson of Poplar Bluff, brother of the bride, and Alan Kindred of Kennett, cousin of the groom were candlelighters.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floorlength dress of white satin peau de soie with matching train. The dress featured a natural waistline, long sleeves which tapered into a buttoned cuff and lace encircled neckline and cuffs. Lace also extended down the dress front and around the train.

Mrs. Charles Van Chaney Jr.

She wore a three- tiered, floor- length, illusion veil and carried white and pink rosebuds, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Miss Janet Lee was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Gray of Poplar Bluff and Mrs. George Watson of Fenton, sister- in-law of the bride.

They wore floor- length empire gowns overlaid with pink and white floral organza accented at the waist with hot pink satin bows and ribbons. Each wore a white picture hat trimmed with satin ribbon and carried a nosegay of pink miniature carnations and baby's breath.

The groom chose a King George tuxedo of white brocade with a white ruffled shirt. He wore a boutonniere of stephanotis.

C. D. Alcorn Jr. of Sikeston, cousin of the groom, was best man, and Jim Cumbee and Gary Simmons were groomsmen. They wore the same type of tuxedo as the groom with ruffled shirts of pastel pink to match the dresses of the bridesmaids they escorted. Each wore a pink carnation boutonniere.

Fathers of the couple were attired like the groom and wore white carnation boutonnieres.

Paul Taylor of Cape Girardeau, brother- in- law of the groom, and George Watson of Fenton, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Watson wore a floor-length dress of beige double knit, and Mrs. Chaney wore a pale blue, double-knit, floor-length dress for the ceremony. Both wore pink cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Paul Taylor of Cape Girardeau, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guestbook.

A reception followed the wedding in the church fellowship hall which was decorated with hearts, love birds and ivy covered trellises. The bride's table featured a three- tiered wedding cake decorated in tiny, white, angel figurines and pink rosebuds. The groom's table was also used to hold the groom's cake of German chocolate made by the bride. A crystal punch bowl was on the bride's table and a silver coffee service on the groom's.

Mrs. Ernest Hammons, Mrs. Roger Harris, Mrs. Bob Gray, Mrs. Detroy Hill, Mrs. Clifford Allen and Mrs. Vernon Crossen were in charge of the reception. They were assisted by Mrs. Dave Smith, Miss Debbie Mouser, Mrs. Mike Parris and the Misses Pat Haupt, Denise Hawkins, Linda Allen and Miss Cheryl Allen.

A rehearsal dinner was given Aug. 4 by the groom's parents at the Turquoise Room of the Holiday Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaney are 1971 graduates of Poplar Bluff High School and attended Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau for two years. They are now students at Union University in Jackson, Tenn.

Out- of- town guests for the wedding included:

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Alcorn, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Alcorn and Mrs. Arvil Nickell of Sikeston; Brian Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Darby of Cape Girardeau.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Seagrist and family of Brentwood; Mr. and Mrs. Allard Chaney of Arnold; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Fulkerson of Dexter; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Taylor of Bloomfield; Mr. and Mrs. Garland Hamilton of Fredericktown; Mr. and Mrs. Sonny Alcorn of Bertrand.

Ann Landers

Looney boyfriend won't straighten out

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend is marvelous--- but he's nuts. His "practical jokes" drive me up the wall. Sometimes he'll wear a black patch (Moshe Dayan style) over one eye, just to attract attention. Or, he'll show up with his arm in a sling, his head bandaged, or on crutches. Last summer when I was away on vacation he sent me a telegram saying he was in the hospital, very ill--- so I rushed home. He met me at the airport and shouted, "April Fool!" (The date was actually August 16.)

In June he grew half a moustache. It looked ridiculous. I refused to kiss him until he shaved it off. He kept the blamed thing for nearly a month. Last night he tried to pay the restaurant bill with "funny money." He had it printed with HIS picture instead of Alexander Hamilton's. The restaurant manager nearly punched him in the mouth. They got into a fight and I was so embarrassed I left without him.

Deep down he's a very sweet guy and he'd do anything in the world for me but I'm afraid to marry him because he's such a loon. I'd like your advice.--- Offagain Onagain

Dear Offa: He sounds too flaky for the long haul. If you do marry him, better buy some rubber- soled gym shoes and prepare for a lifetime of wall-climbing.

Dear Ann Landers: How does one find love again? I've been divorced ten years and during that time I've had sex with hundreds of women. I've been hopping from bed to bed hoping to find someone I can really care about. So far, it hasn't happened.

During this time three women have fallen in love with me, including the girl I am going with now. But I just can't return her love. I feel lonely and empty. She wants to get married. I'd like to marry again, but I don't feel that she's the one I want to spend the rest of my life with.

Is there something wrong with me? Are my standards too high? Am I looking for something that doesn't exist? Should I keep looking? What's your advice?--- Have But Have Not

Dear H.B.H.N: The girl you are looking for won't jump into bed with you on the first date, so go back and check some of the dollies who said no. "Miss Right" might be among them. And while you're at it, give some thought to YOUR "standards." They're about as high as a bee's knee.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's And Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The two weddings in today's edition of The Daily Standard were turned in prior to announcement of a deadline of one month.

As of Monday, Sept. 10, all wedding information must be received by The Daily Standard within three weeks after the ceremony. Weddings one month old, or older, will NOT run.

Miss Layne, Holyfield marry

Mr. and Mrs. Henry (Butch) Holyfield Jr.

The wedding of Miss Vickie Jane Layne and Henry (Butch) Jackson Holyfield Jr. was solemnized Aug. 11 at 2 p.m. in First Southern Baptist Church at Diehlstadt. The Revs. Norman Shepard and A. C. Sullivant performed the double- ring ceremony.

The bride carried out the theme of something old — her mother's engagement ring; something new — her wedding dress and veil; something borrowed — her sister's garter and kerchief from the groom's grandmother; something blue — the bride's garter; and a sixpence in her shoe.

Seven - branched candelabras were on each side of a gold arch filled with greenery and a multicolor bow on top. The unity candle was in the center of the arch and on the piano and organ were love candleholders surrounded by white daisies. Pastel bows marked the family pews. As the guests arrived they were greeted at the guestbook by Miss Marilyn Brucker of New Hamburg.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Mrs. Mayne Jean Poage, organist. Bobby Eckman, Larry Eckman and Jackie Huffman of Thayer sang the "Wedding Song" and an original piece of their own.

Following the exchange of vows, the young couple together lit a single white taper signifying marriage in Christ and that the two now became one.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lee Layne of Charleston Route Two. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry (Cotton) Holyfield of Sikeston Route Two. The bride's grandfather is Oscar Gilliland of Charleston Route Two. The groom's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holyfield, Smith Street, and Mrs. and Mrs. Foncie Poe, Smith Street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an old-fashioned gown with the princess lines of beruffled dacron polyester organza, bishop sleeves and a clergy neckline. Nottingham lace, pin tucks and satin buttons inspired a turn of the century look.

The elbow- length veil of English silk illusion had a headpiece of lace pearls outlined in seed pearls.

The bride carried a white Bible covered in lace and white ribbon. On top of the Bible was lavendar, pink, blue, yellow, and green daisies and two white roses, one of which the bride presented to her mother on the way to the altar as a sign of virginity and love. The other rose was given to the groom's mother at the end of the wedding ceremony.

Candlelighters were Lee Ann Holyfield of Denver, Colo., cousin of the groom, and Tommy Wade of Charleston, nephew of the bride.

The bride chose as her attendants, Mrs. Dorothy Wade, her sister, as matron of honor and Mrs. Debbie Romine, a cousin, as maid of honor; Miss Peggy Buchheit of Perryville, Mrs. Janet Lashmet of Sikeston and Mrs. Janice Margrabe of Scott City as her bridesmaids.

The attendants wore long, empire- waisted gowns of daisy print and matching crepe in green, yellow, blue, pink and lavendar. The gowns had low rounded necklines and long sheer sleeves. They wore white wide- brimmed hats with sprays of tinted daisies and carried baskets spilling with daisies and ribbon.

Miss Kimberly Slaten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kemp Slaten of Charleston, was the flower girl. She wore a white empire waist dress with pastel love-knots tied in the eyelet material. Ringbearer was Tommy Dover, son of Mrs. Barbara Dover of Charleston.

The miniature bride and groom, who preceded the bride in the processional, were Miss Elizabeth Gilliland of Hattiesburg, Miss., cousin of the bride, and Tommy Wade of Charleston, nephew of the bride.

Terry Deason served as best man. Groomsmen were Gary Bohanon, John Urhahn and Joe Davis of Benton and Walter Margrabe of Scott City. Ushers were Joe Dan Johnson of Thayer and George Stumm of St. Louis.

After the ceremony a reception was held in Holiday Inn at Sikeston. The bride's five- tiered cake, decorated with daisies tinted in the bride's chosen colors, had a stairway holding miniature dolls of the wedding party. On each side of the wedding cake were two heart- shaped cakes with pastel daisies on the border. The table was overlaid with a white tablecloth accented with bells and streamers of the different pastel colors.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Annette Gilliland of Hattiesburg, Miss., table hostess; Miss Jeanne Strange of Ste. Genevieve, Miss Linda Sanford of Cahokia, Ill., and Miss Mary Ann Reichert of Crystal City.

Miss Marilyn Brucker presided over the guestbook and as each guest signed the book with a white quill pen, Miss Brucker gave each one a pastel rose rice bag.

Mrs. Layne, mother of the bride, wore a pastel green dress of polyester double knit which was covered in a sheer blue- flowered material. The dress had a round neckline and full sleeves. Mrs. Holyfield, mother of the groom, wore blue double knit lace. The dress had a stand-up collar and long full sleeves. Both wore white roses with blue and green ribbon.

Three showers were given for the bride. The first was given by the Young Married People's Class of the Diehlstadt Baptist Church. The second shower was given by the Blodgett Baptist Church and the third was given in the home of Mrs. Sue Grant.

The rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening at Grecian Steak House, given by the groom's parents.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Holyfield went to Tan-Tar-A, a resort at the Lake of the Ozarks, on their honeymoon.

The couple's new home is on Route Two.

The bride and groom will both return to Southeast Missouri State University this year as juniors. The bride is employed at Bonnie's Hallmark Cards, and the groom works at Sikeston Memorial Airport.

Among the out- of- town guests were:

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Gilliland and John and Jimmy Lee of Hattiesburg, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Bud DuMay, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Dost and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Brase of Cape Girardeau; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith and Annette of Millersville; Mrs. Wilson Lange and Kenny and Mike of Jackson.

Connally considers presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democrat John Connally has acknowledged he's thinking about running for the presidency in 1976 and says he will have to decide by 1975.

On the occasion of yet another welcome into the Republican party, the former Navy secretary, former Democratic governor of Texas, former Treasury secretary and former aide to President Nixon displayed great pleasure in dueling verbally with newsmen about his presidential intentions.

At a news conference after a day-long meeting of the Republican National Committee, at which GOP leaders expressed confidence that the Watergate scandal would not hurt their 1974 and 1976 prospects, Connally was asked whether he had thought about running.

"If you were asking me if I've thought of that possibility, I'll just stipulate that right now," he replied.

Asked when he would have to decide, Connally replied that "any person would have to face that decision, I think, at some point in 1975."

"I'm not going to be a reluctant candidate if I decide to become one," Connally said. He said he would wage an all-out drive including contesting primaries if he decides to run.

Connally, who last weekend launched a nationwide speaking tour, said he is telling Republicans that he is not a candidate for anything but has thought of it and that prospective candidates should consider three questions:

—"Are you prepared to commit yourselves for the rest of your life to that task?

—"Do you really feel you could contribute something?

—"Is it possible to get the nomination and, if you can, can you be elected?"

maintain the park.

A request from George Rosenfeld that an alley running behind his home from Ashby Street to the A. D. Simpson Park be closed it were possible for the city was rejected by the council.

David Schmeig, district manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and Gary Forsee, wire chief for the Charleston area, informed the council that the cleaning and control maintenance program is progressing and trouble reports are down. They also said three additional operators had been put on the 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. shift.

An ordinance amending the city's franchise with the See-Mor Cable TV was tabled. City attorney W. Clifton Banta Sr. was instructed to return the ordinance to the company's attorney and request that the stipulation stating the monthly rate for local residents shall not be higher than than charged other area cities be included. The amended ordinance states the city will receive three per cent rather than five per cent of the gross service charge.

George Simmons was appointed to the Housing Authority board replacing Herb Marshall whose term expired.

A request from Mrs. Helen Currin that the city assist with the expenses of the senior citizen hot lunch program was tabled. Mrs. Currin told the council that since the program began April 2, 5,166 lunches have been served at an average of 66 per day. She stressed that the program was purely volunteer and that expenses were being met on a day to day basis. She said volunteers were trying to secure funds through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare but that the program could not be fully funded by the government. She asked if acceptance of phase number one of the proposal will not eliminate city collections already in the progress.

Invited to speak by Miner Mayor L. F. Wheeler, chairman of the county association, Yersak told the mayors that Scott County has a lot going for it and should start developing and expanding more.

Some of the things that Yersak said are going to contribute to area growth are the new Mississippi River bridge to Cairo, Ill., now being constructed, the interchange of Interstate Highways 55 and 57, airport improvements at Sikeston, retail trade in Sikeston, the new trade school in New Madrid and the Noranda Aluminum Co. plant.

Yersak said several bills now before the state legislature that may be passed will affect smaller towns and counties.

Some of the things Yersak said the county needs to start planning for include: industry, recreation, solid waste, ambulance service, residential farming and school, water and sewer, rural fire and road districts.

"Any growth in towns and the county are going to cost the people money," he said, adding that when people move out of a town, it costs the ones who live there more money to maintain services they want.

Yersak said it is important for all small towns and the county to adopt a comprehensive plan. This sometimes can make a difference in receiving of federal aid, he added.

Towns which have their own plan at present include: Sikeston, Chaffee, Scott City and Miner.

Bond administration comes under attack

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — The Democratic party spokesman in Missouri charged Tuesday that the administration of Gov. Christopher S. Bond is long on propaganda but short on accountability.

Will W. Davis, executive director of the Democratic State Committee, blasted the Republican governor in a speech before the 9th Congressional District Federated Democratic Women's clubs.

He said:

"We are witnessing government by proclamation, pronouncement, propaganda, and public relations with little sembalnce of accountability to Missourians as to the performance of that administration."

Bond has issued an executive order against conflict of interest and has said there have been no vilations.

But Davis said there is conflict of interest in Bond's Missouri Transition Government, Inc., having John C. Craft of Kansas City conduct the job interview for Finance Commissioner William R. Kostman, and now Craft is asking Kostman to turn down two new bank proposals for Kansas City.

Davis said Craft represents three banks opposed to the proposed new banks. He also said former Mayor Ilus W. Davis, who is chairman of the Bond Appointed Police Board in Kansas City, heads one of the banks asking for approval of a drive-up facility, which is opposed by the three banks Craft represents.

Further, Davis said, Charles H. Price, II, who was Jackson County treasurer for Bond's campaign, heads one of the banks represented by Craft.

Davis also questioned the way the state purchasing officer, Herbert Damron was hired. The state contracted with the St. Louis Junior College District for Damron's services, paying over $22,000 to the district, which continues to pay Damron's salary. Damron plans to return to the district.

Damron also received a $1,000 consultant fee from the district during his first six-month contract with the state. He said the fee, which he no longer receives, was part of his 1972-73 fiscal year contract with the junior college district.

Damron's supervisor, Robert L. James, said he didn't see any conflict of interest and said Damron's working arrangement with the state was no secret.

"Why wasn't Mr. Damron placed on the state payroll where all could trace and see what he was being paid — as all previous occupants of his position have been?" Davis asked.

Davis also questioned whether the state should be paying $2,191 in federal and state insurance premiums and state retirement benefits for Damron, instead of having the junior college district pay it from duly authorized appropriations.

Bulldogs lack experience

Sikeston high school, a dominating power on the Southeast Missouri gridirons in the 1950's and early and mid 60's, will be experiencing their third new head coach since the Bulldogs tied for the Northern Division Championship of the SEMO Football Association with Cape Central and Perryville in 1968 when they open up the 1973 campaign at Public School Stadium Friday night against Farmington.

Since that time (1968) the once feared Bulldogs have experienced their worst seasons and have been doormates of the famed Northern Division.

But 1973 and the years to follow should provide the dedicated Bulldog followers with some outstanding teams.

The school system re-adopted football on the Jr. High Level and hired one of the winningest and most respected coaches in the district, Terry Smith, to head up the rebuilding program.

Coach Smith, former Perryville head mentor, has his work cut out for him since most of his prospective athletes have had no fundamental training at the Jr. High level. Since the returement of coach Bill Sapp in 1968 the school has had no football training in the seventh or eighth grades. Football has started in the ninth grade for the past three years.

The Bulldogs finished with a 3-7 slate last season under coach Pete Cirrintano, losing its final four games.

Smith has just four returning starters on offense and eight on defense to work with. Graudation took the record- shattering pass combo of Bill Colwick to Glenn Guttenfelder and left the team with no experience in the backfield.

On defense the story is better with veterans available at most positions. Shane Waggoner, Roy Bowman, Greg Colwick, Sam Sanders and Dick Swan give SHS the nucleus of a tough, hard-hitting defense. The backfield is all- veteran, so it should be tough to pass against Sikeston if a good rush is put on by the front five.

Let's look at the lineup:

The powerback in the power-I offensive formation is senior Greg Colwick. The 5-foot-9, 165 pound returning letterman is beginning his third year as a defensive starter at cornerback, but this is his first try at offense. With a 4.9 timing for 40 yards, Colwick is quick enough and strong enough to give the Dogs a durable, if not flashy, offensive threat from tha position.

Dick Swann mans the power-I's most important offensive position at tailback. Swann, at 175 pounds, will do most of the ball-carrying for Sikeston and possesses the potential to be one of the area's top backs. Swann also starts for the second year in a row on defense at halfback.

Richard Blankenship will be faced with the task of filling some mighty big shoes. Bill Colwick set nearly every passing record for the Bulldogs during the last two years, but he is gone. Blankenship will step in at quarterback and try to run the offense that must score more than last year's total of 122 points, if they are to win. Blankenship doesn't have a really strong arm, but he is accurate on his passes and is more deceptive handling the ball than Colwick was, a talent he will need to further develop in the upcoming season.

The team will feature no split end, but at strong end will be 1972's "Hitter of the year" on offense, senior Roy Bowman. Bowman will return at his linebacker spot, but will take his talents to the other side of the line of scrimmage to add to the offensive effort. Bowman, at 6-foot- 1 and 175 pounds is quick and strong with above average hands.

The strong tackle is senior Kenny Dement. Dement, who played sparingly last season, has assumed the job of cheerleader on the offensive and defensive lines. The 180-pound senior lacks speed, but will have to make up for it wit hustle and desire.

Strong guard is inexperienced Mark Hesslerode. Hesselrode was a surprise to the coaches and came from nowhere to claim the starting job from several veterans. The 165-pounder is small, like most of his teammates, but is quick and a hard hitter.

Center John Ralph is a possible starter. Ralph, a junior returning starter has had to fight off a tough challenge from another junior Tim Watkins, but, experience will most probably give the 5-foot-10, 175- pound Ralph the edge over the smaller Watkins.

Weak guard will be manned by Shane Wagoner, a returning starter on offense and defense. Wagoner cracked the starting lineup last season halfway through the campaign on offense and started every game on defense at tackle, where he is Sikeston's lone returning all-conference players. Wagoner, at 6-foot-1 and 185 pounds is one of the area's stronges, quickest linemen on offense and defense. Defensively, the senior has been moved to noseguard.

Weak tackle is returning starter Mike Marshall. Th veteran lineman stands 5-foot- 10 and weighs 180 pounds and give coach Smith another badly needed experienced lineman on the offensive and defensive teams.

Rick Love has displaced last season's starter at the other end spot, Rick Eisenbach. Eisenbach was set back by injuries and Love is also a superior blocker with the running game being stressed this season.

Sam Sanders, after a fine season as nose guard last year, will start at defensive end in the upcoming season. Sam is quick and versatile, providing good penetration from his end slot.

Mark Murphy was an often- used reserve last year and seems to have won the weak tackle spot. Murphy also lacks size, but is a steady, experienced ballplayer.

Curtis Bonds, not on the team last year, gives size to the defensive line. Bonds, a senior, scales 235 pounds and is very quick, but inexperienced.

The entire defensive backfield is veteran, with just one starter missing from last year. Kevin Waters is the lone back that won't play offense. Waters, from Virginia, is a fine defensive back and a possible quarterback fillin. He provides good coverage on passes and gives the backfield an added lettermanith game experience.

The defense should be tough against the run and pass. Sikeston's team is small, but gutty, with fair speed. The lack of overall talent, which forced some players to go both ways, may hurt the stamina of the team late in the game, but players have gone both ways before and coach Terry Smith plans to win or lose with his best.

The largest letterman on the squad, John Farris, has missed many practices with a broken hand. The 6-foot- 2, 200 pound fullback may get to play Friday night, pending a doctor's opinion. He will suit out.

The kicking game is still undecided, with Greg Colwick ably handling the punting. But, the extra - points job is up for grabs between sophomore Ron Priday and Farris and Blankenship. Either Blankenship or Farris will kick off for Sikeston Friday night in game number one at 7:50 p.m. against Farmington. A tough defense and an unproven offense will try to stave off a revenge minded Farmington team coaches by Jack Richardson in that initial encounter. Last season Sikeston won 12-7 on a last second pass. Farmington will remember and it will be up to the Bulldogs to overcome the aroused Knight and give Bulldogs faithful something to cheer about.

Mizzou hosts Rebs

COLUMBIA, -- If the Ole Miss Rebles were less than impressive in their opening win over Villanova last Saturday night, Tiger Coach Al Ononfrio can't very well kick up his heels in jubilation.

For a very good reason... Missouri's track record in opening football games has been considerabley less than impressive. Historically, the Bengals have not had too many smashing debuts in the past 25 years. For Ononfrio, that's a nagging hex as Mississippi rolls into Tigertown thie weekend.

It's the first-ever football meeting of the Johnny Rebs and a Big-Eight foe. Some 47,000 fans will migrate to Faurot Field for Mizzou's 1973 inaugural. Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m.

Flag-waving followers of Ole Miss can take heart. During the last quarter-century, the Tiger record for football openers is 8 wins, 16 losses and 1 tie. Against teams from the Southeastern Conference, Missouri stands 0-3-1 in opening games.

In 1957, Coach Frank Broyles' Tigers tied Vanderbilt, 7-7 in a night opener at Nashville. The next year Dan Devine's coaching debut was spoiled by Vandy, 12-8. His 1965 and 1968 bowl teams got off badly, losing to Kentucky both times, 7-0 and 12-6.

Missouri goes into this season with a revamped offensive and defensive alignment -- and typical first-game hazards could hamper the Tiger's adjustment to their new formations.

Ole Miss, on the other hand, worked out its opening-game kinks in a 24-6 triumph over Villanova, but the Rebs lost their No. 1 quarter-back, Norris Weese, in the process. Weese, the SEC's total offense leader in '72, tore ligaments in a knee during the first quarter Saturday night, and is probably out indefinitely. Backup Kenny Lyons, who missed half the 1971 campaign (shoulder separation) and all of 1972 (knee surgery), took over for Weese and will lead the club here Saturday.

Missouri has a quality leader in senior John Cherry, who quarterbacked all 12 of the Tigers' 1972 games. He will be joined by the team's top rusher of a year ago, tailback Tommy Reamon, fullback Ray Bybee -- the No. 2 ground-gainer -- and slotback Bill Ziegler.

Reamon, now the workhorse in the Power "I", missed last Saturday's final scrimmage. If his brused ribs haven't healed by gametime, the running back from Newport News, Va., will yield to Leroy Moss -- another quick-hitting, low-slung threat.

On defense, two key players -- middle guard Frank Caldwell and halfback John Moseley -- will need quick recoveries this week. Moseley, the stabilizer in a secondary already depleted by disciplinary action against two players, has missed three weeks of work with a pulled hamstring muscle.

Caldwell sat out the last two Saturday scrimmages. the 225-pound redhead was grounded by a strained muscle in his upper arm.

Suspension of defensive backs Brad Brown and Chuck Banta for violation of training rules means that at least one newcomer will open in the secondary. Best bet is Ken Downing, a sophomore from Aurora. Coach Billy Kinard's Rebels will gear their attack to the rushing of backs Larry Kramer and Gene Allen -- and the pass-catching of Burney "Butch" Veazey was a pre-season all-America selection. He had eight touchdown receptions last year among his 29 catches for 374 yards.

Defensively, the Rebs are led by middle linebacker Jim Stuart and Ben Williams, a 245-pound sophomore tackle.

Dexter picked

The Daily Standard prognosticators have picked Cape Girardeau Central, Dexter and Illmo- Scott City as favorites to repeat as champions in their respective Northern, Southern and Bootheel divisions of the Southeast Missouri Football Association.

All three have won their respective titles for the past three seasons. Cape will be shooting for their fifth straight North championship.

The crossed- finger guessers gave the CCHS Bengals the unanimous nod while the South race was a three way battle between Dexter, Caruthersville and Portageville. I- SC was given some pressure by Doniphan.

Murray, Ky., Sept. 11-- Murray State University will open its football season Saturday in new Roy Stewart Stadium against tough Western Carolina, ninth-rated in Associated Press's pre- season, college- division poll.

Western Carolina opened its season last Saturday by tying defending Ohio Valley Conference champion Tennessee Tech 10- 10.

Racer Coach Bill Furgerson who scouted the Western- Tech game was awed by the strength of the Catamounts. "All their preseason press said they'd be the best Western Carolina team in history and after seeing the game, I'll agree," Furgerson said. "They've got everything they need to be a great team. About their only worry was an inexperienced quarterback and all he did against a really tough Tech defense was complete 12 of 25 passes for 239 yards. Of course, having two elusive, lightening- fast receivers such as Eagle Moss and Jerry Gains has to give a sophomore quarterback lots of confidence."

Moss, who has given the Racers fits the last two seasons, caught 7 passes for 87 yards and Gains caught 4 for 104.

Furgerson called the Western Carolina defense "extremely tough and aggressive" and said two of the Catamount linebackers, Little All- America Steve Yates and Joe Hunter, were as good as he'd seen anywhere.

"I was tremendously impressed by the size and speed of their entire squad and it's easy to see why they've been ranked so high," Furgerson concluded.

As in past seasons, Murray enters this one worried about its lack of depth. "If we can keep our first units active and in the game, I think we'll be a good football team," Furgerson said, "but we can't afford many injuries."

The Racers are expected to pass considerably more this season than in the last two, and Tom Pandolfi, a part- time starter the last two seasons, has won the starting quarterback spot after a tough, pre season battle with Mike Hobbie, who also started some games last fall.

Pandolfi's chief target is likely to be 6- 4, 225- pound tight end Bill Farrell, one of the best at his position in the South. He'll get help from service- returnee Willie DeLoach and veteran Scotty Crump, the wide receivers.

Don Clayton of Malden, Mo., will attempt to continue the fine running back tradition of recent years at Murray, and in pre- season scrimmages he's performed as if he'll do just that.

The Murray offense has most of its line of last year back, headed by tackles Charlie Carpenter and Dale Willis and guard Rod Pickering.

The defensive line is anchored by end Joe Echert, the linebacker corps by Capt. Bruce Farris of Sikeston, Mo., and Tom Johnson, and the backfield by Paul Coltharp.

Murray and Western Carolina have played twice previously, Murray winning the first game 32- 22 and Western Carolina winning last year 21- 12.

Although considerable work remains to be done on the new stadium, the areas vital for football will be usable Saturday. Named for former coach and athletic director Roy Stewart, the stadium will seat 16,800 spectators and cost $5 1/2 million. Its playing field is of Poly- Turf.

Coach Stewart, who retired as Murray's athletic director in 1967, was head coach of the Racers for 12 seasons and his teams won 60 games, lost 34, and tied 11. His 1933 team was 9- 0- 0 and the only undefeated, untied one in Murray's history.

Saturday's game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.-- The St. Louis Football Cardinals jump into regular season action Sunday when they travel to Philadelphia to meet the Eagles in a match between two NFC Eastern Division opponents. Kickoff in Veterans Stadium is set for noon, St. Louis time.

The game marks the beginning of the Big Red's 14th season in St. Louis and the first for new head coach Don Coryell.

Coryell's team posted a 2- 3 record in pre- season competition, including last Friday night's 16- 7 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs before 49, 486 fans at Busch Memorial Stadium. The Eagles, losing to the New York Jets Sunday in Tampa, Fla., 16- 13, closed their pre- season slate with a 1- 5 mark.

Against the Chiefs, the Cardinals recorded their lone touchdown early in the game with running back Donny Anderson scoring from three yards out. However, the Big Red attack could not produce any more points, even though quarterback Jim Hart completed 13 of 19 passes for 176 yards.

For the five pre- season games, Hart wound up with 73 completions in 113 attempts for 875 yards and a completion percentage of 54.9 per cent. He threw only three interceptions-- all coming in the Big Red's 31- 20 loss to the Chicago Bears.

Rookie speedster Terry Metclaf led the Cardinals in both rushing and receiving. The third- round draft choice from Long Beach State ran 29 times for 98 yards, two more than another rookie runner, Eddie Moss, of Poplar Bluff and caught 16 passes for 195 yards. Against Kansas City, Metcalf had eight receptions for 126 yards in an impressive performance.

Anderson, who scored four rushing touchdowns in only 20 attempts, was right behind Metcalf in the receiving department with 14 catches for 130 yards and a touchdown, while wide receiver Walker Gillette caught nine passes and tight end- wide receiver Jim McFarland eight.

Another rookie, free safety Clarence Duren, led in interceptions with three, while Roger Wehrli was the leader in punt returns with a 13.2- yard average.

The Cardinals produced a victory and a tie in the two meetings with the Eagles last year. The victory, by a 24- 23 score, came on the last day of the season and marked the retirement of all- pro safety Larry Wilson. Earlier in the season, the teams had tied in Philadelphia, 6- 6. The Eagles led the all- time series, which began in 1935, by a 26- 4- 4 margin.

Following the Eagles game, the Cardinals return to St. Louis to prepare for their home opener and a rugged three- week grind. The home debut will come against the defending NFC champion Washington Redskins on September 23. Then, the Big Red must go to Dallas to meet the Cowboys on September 20, and return a week later to entertain the defending AFC West champion Oakland Raiders.

Commissioner named

PORTAGEVILLE-- A new street commissioner and a new dog catcher were appointed Monday night by the City Council, which also reappointed two board members to the Housing Authority Board.

Owen McGill was named street commissioner to replace William C. Graham, who was forced to resign because of health problems.

Doyle Laws was appointed dog catcher. The position has been vacant since March, following the resignation of Joe Simmons, who had served for 11 years.

Bill Hayes and Evans Baker were reappointed to the Housing Authority Board for four- year terms.

A resolution was passed, calling for the repair and blacktopping of portions of 10 streets. Work is expected to begin about Oct. 1.

Streets listed include 12th Street from McCrate to McArthur; McArthur Street from 10th to 12th; Workman Avenue from Sixth to Seventh; Eighth Street from McArthur to Huffman; 10th Street from Florida to McCrate; Fifth Street from McCrate to Highway 61; Clover Lane from King Avenue to Huffman Avenue; north end of King Avenue to First Street; St. Mary's Avenue from First Street to Cotton Street; and Cotton Street from St. Mary's Avenue to Huffman Avenue.

Following a lengthy discussion concerning complaints that many motorists are violating speed limits and stop signs on the city streets, the council ordered the police department to make an immediate crackdown and issue citations to the violators.

A special meeting will be held on Sept. 18 at 7:30 p.m. to open bids on the proposed improvements to the city's old water treatment plant.

The custom of clothing baby boys in blue began because of a belief that evil spirits which would harm a male child could be kept powerless by blue, which was thought to have divine powers. The World Almanac says. Girl babies were not given a "protective" color because they were considered inferior and evil spirits would not take interest in them.

DETROIT—The car which most exemplifies the newness of Cadillac for 1974 is the redesigned Coupe de Ville (top). The standard front end features a new lighting arrangement. New bumper guards are wider and lower. The bumper impact strips are standard and are silver gray in color to blend into the chrome bumper. An all-new rear quarter panel has enabled Cadillac designers to create this smart appearing fixed rear coupe window. A custom Cabriolet vinyl roof option is now available for the 1974 Coupe de Ville. The half-top design is similar to that on the Eldorado Cabriolet.

Cadillac will again have the Fleetwood Eldorado Convertible (bottom) in its lineup for 1974. The focal point of the new front appearance is a uniquely-styled fine mesh grille. The grille extends down below the center bumper bar and is protected against impact by two short guards. As on the standard Cadillac, the bumper guards are wider and lower to provide protection from low impacts. The side appearance features a narrow body molding which protects the side of the car from parking lot damage. Along with the new grille, bolder striping and new wheel discs accentuate the classic Eldorado lines. Seven convertible top choices are available.

Cadillac adds fuel economy

DETROIT — The 1974 Cadillac, restyled in front and rear, features an exclusive look to the new Coupe de Ville, a dramatic change in the interior of all models and engineering innovations adding customer value benefits in fuel economy and safety.

"Nine models offered in three series, Calais, De Ville and Fleetwood, will go on sale in Cadillac dealer showrooms on Sept. 13," according to Robert D. Lund, general manager of Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

"In size, overall length for all models is increased 2.2 inches to accommodate added rear bumper protection," Lund said.

He pointed out that the new bumpers meet all federal and state mandatory requirements, and in addition, the front bumper guards are wider and lower. The bumper impact strips are a unique silver gray color to blend into the chrome bumper. The new rear bumpers on all models utilize Delco energy absorbers and telescope into the rear fender extensions and tail lamp bezels upon impact.

"A striking change to the Coupe de Ville and Calais Coupe upper has been accomplished by the new design of a fixed rear quarter window," Lund said. "The Fleetwood Eldorado series has been newly restyled in front and rear."

Turning to the significant improvements in the interior of the 1974 Cadillac, Lund explained, "All models have a redesigned wood grained instrument panel which extends in one continuous sweep from one side of the car to the other." He said, "Immediate functional information for driving is separated from conditional information. A color coded fuel gauge and warning lights are contained in a horizontal 'strip' across the upper portion of the panel.

"Included in this 'information band' in the center of the instrument panel is a new precision crystal controlled digital clock, standard on all models."

New interior trim sets include three colored brocades, crushed velours, herringbones and leathers. Complementing the wide range of interior combinations are 21 exterior colors, 15 of which are new, and 6 are firemist. A selection of 10 vinyl and 7 convertible tops are offered in 1974.

"To further enhance a customer's preference for personalizing his or her choice of a Cadillac, there are three new 'Special Edition Cars' available in 1974," Mr. Lund said, "the new Fleetwood Talisman, the De Ville d'Elegance and the De Ville Cabriolet, each with a distinctiveness of its own.

Lund reviewed engineering innovations in the 1974 models. These include refinements to the 472 cubic inch engine used in the standard Cadillac and the 500 cubic inch engine in the front wheel drive Eldorado.

"New engineering developments for 1974 include a new faster burn combustion chamber, lower overlap camshaft, more highly damped engine mounts, a new clutch fan and a new inlet air silencer including cold air intake."

For improved starting at moderate temperatures, a vacuum reindexing feature has been added to the choke. Further advancements include additional body sealing and insulation. Also important is a new air conditioning system with improved air distribution and control as well as provision for improved fuel economy under moderate temperature conditions.

"Other engineering highlights for 1974 include greater seat comfort and a mechanical lockout starter system," Lund said.

"Steel belted radial tires are offered as an option on all series for 1974 as well as a new optional lower axle ratio for improved fuel economy on the Eldorado. Other options include an electrically operated trunk lock pull down, a new high- energy electronic ignition system, a space- saver spare tire for more luggage compartment capacity and a new pulse- action wiper control which adds an adjustable intermittent delay action to the wiper system." The new cadillacs can be seen at SeMo Motor Company.

Indiana co. purchases Stoddard stockyard

BLOOMFIELD— Heinold Hog Market of Kouts, Ind., has purchased the Stoddard County Levestock Co. property south of Bloomfield as its 62nd market in seven states.

Heinold acquired the hog and cattle market from West Kentucky Land and Cattle Co. It began operating under the Heinold name Monday. The stockyard is just south of Bloomfield on Highway 25.

The market will continue to buy both hogs and cattle Monday through Friday and will operate under the same policies as the other 61 Heinold Hog Markets. The market will not charge farmers commission or yardage and hog checks will be written immediately on arrival weights.

The market will be managed by David Schmidt, who has served as assistant manager at the Heinold Hog Market at Fancy Farm, Ky.

Clarence Cantrell, who has been at the stockyards for 17 years, will continue to work for Heinold. Cantrell was a partner in the operation for 15 years, before the livestock business was sold to Kentucky interests.

Heinold is the world's largest non- packer buyer of hogs, handling almost 3.5 million in 1972. It has both fat and feeder cattle divisions that have shown rapid growth since they were founded in the late 1960s.

Other Heinold Hog markets in Missouri are located at Bowling Green, Hawk Point, Wellsville, LaBelle, Monroe City, Stet, Tarkio, Maryville and King City. Another is currently being constructed at Clarence.

Other states served by Heinold are Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan and Iowa. Heinold sells hogs to over 80 packers across the nation and provides feeder cattle for farmers across the Midwest.

The company began with one hog market at Kouts, Ind., that bought 35,000 hogs in 1950.

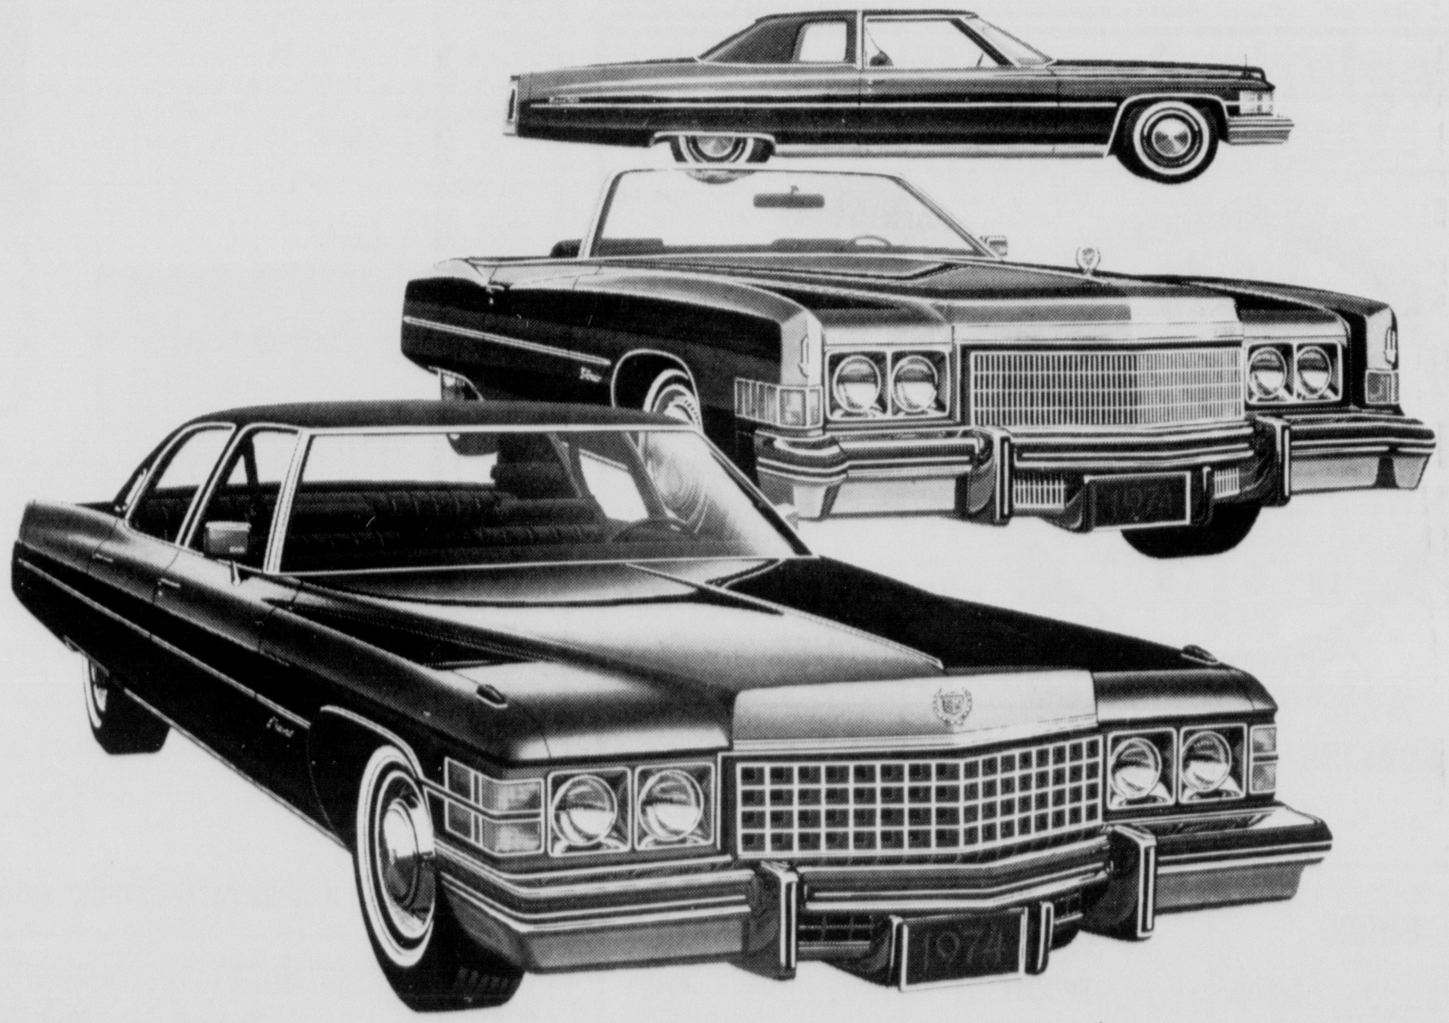
Cadillac '74

More than ever...

America's Number One Luxury Car.

It is a matter of record that in the model year just ending more people chose to own Cadillacs than ever before in history—more than double those of the nearest competitor. And it is true that Cadillac traditionally leads all U.S. car makes in both resale value and owner loyalty. It's a record without equal. Yet in many ways the Cadillacs of 1974 are superior to the cars that established this record.



It's what you expect of Cadillac ...and something more.

More choice. And what a choice it is—the greatest in the luxury field. There are the three you see here. The classic Fleetwood Brougham. The magnificent new version of America's only luxury convertible—Eldorado. The newly styled Coupe deVille. Plus six other basic models. Plus...

New Special Edition Cars. Luxury versions of DeVille. A new Brougham d'Elegance. And the new ultra-elegant Fleetwood Talisman.

More elegance. Inside every 1974 Cadillac is a new instrument panel. Interiors are more luxurious than ever.

More flair. The smart new styling of the Coupe deVille is a case in point. Its new lines, highlighted by the private quarter window, accent its youthful flavor.

More driving pleasure. Finer engine performance . . . from start to stop. Due in part to a new combustion chamber, a new camshaft, a choke reindexer to provide quick starting, a snorkel to supply the engine with cooler air.

And something less. Even less engine noise with high-damping engine mounts, a fan clutch and a muffler for air intake. Inside the car, a virtual network of acoustical materials—including double seals on doors—silently does its job. After all, it's a Cadillac.

To own or lease the 1974 Cadillac of your choice, see your Cadillac dealer now.

Malden Council sets public hearing date

MALDEN — After accepting planning and zoning regulations submitted by the Planning and Zoning Committee Monday night, the City Council set Oct. 4 for a public hearing on the proposed plan. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall.

After a meeting with the Board of Public Works, the council voted to raise the wages of city employes 15 cents per hour, effective July 1 of each year.

Should the cost of living continue to go up, salaries will go up accordingly. The council also decided to meet Sept. 17 to decide on new employes' starting salary.

Street Commissioner Frank Cowell was granted permission to purchase 40 tons of chat.

The council voted to forfeit the $300 fee normally charged for a circus on behalf of the Kiwanis Club.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
TELL DOCTOR PROBLEM

Drug can cause side effects

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — How valuable is Atromid-S (clofibrate) to the health and elimination of excess cholesterol in a woman's body? I am in my 60s and my doctor says I must take Atromid-S twice everyday in order to keep my cholesterol level down. I also have hardening of the arteries and have had dizzy spells at times. When I leave Atromid-S off my dizziness goes away. Do I get toxic to it or what? I also take a nicotinic acid tablet when I need it for dizziness. It helps some.

Is there anything else I could take to lower my cholesterol and help with my hardening of the arteries that's better than Atromid-S and which would not cause me to be dizzy? I do not mind taking medicine, but I do not want any if I do not need it, and especially when it causes me to be dizzy. I can't even focus my eyes. That is true. Otherwise, I am in very good health, enjoy living and what work I'm capable of doing.

Dear Reader— Atromid-S is a very good medicine and has been useful in lowering the cholesterol in many people. Like most other medicines, it can cause side effects in some people.

Atromid-S can cause dizziness, but I do not know whether your dizziness is caused by Atromid-S, or whether it's caused by your hardening of the arteries itself, which can also cause this problem. Your statement that you don't have dizziness when you don't take Atromid-S and that you do when you take it, strongly suggests that it is the Atromid-S. You should talk to your doctor about this and, perhaps, with a period of testing off the medicine, you can find out for certain whether the Atromid-S is related to your problem or whether it's really caused by your atherosclerosis and its affect on the balance centers and mechanisms responsible for dizziness.

You didn't mention your weight, but in general anyone who has any significant amounts of fat deposits under their skin can decrease the cholesterol and blood fat level by adequate weight reduction. This is often not as successful as it could be because patients never really lose all of their excess fat.

To achieve the maximum benefits from fat reduction it's necessary to lose almost all of it. Otherwise, it's like trying to treat a severe diabetic with a very small dose of insulin. Although insulin is a wonderful medicine, small doses will not control severe diabetes, and similarly, eliminating only a small amount of obesity will not significantly decrease blood fat and cholesterol levels. If you have evidence of fat around the small of the back or around the navel underneath the skin, there are pounds you could lose.

Despite the value of medicines in lowering cholesterol, I don't believe that they are replacement for proper prevention of obesity and adjustment of the diet along the lines that have been recommended to prevent atherosclerosis. If these measures are properly carried out, medicine is often not necessary. Doctors sometines give medicine in desperation because their patients will not stay on the type of diet which will control their obesity and blood fat or cholesterol levels. Unfortunately, it is easier to give a pill than to teach people proper nutrition. Many patients would rather take a pill than do something about their eating habits.

Although I am happy to endorse the proper use of medicines, I am not in favor to using them as a substitute for correcting living patterns, which includes proper diet, body fat reduction, proper physical activity, and elimination of harmful habits, such as smoking cigarettes.

What's the Law

The case of the torrid tenant

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

In anticipation of going out on a heavy date, Margie decided to take a bath. She sat down in her tub and turned on the hot water. Suddenly the entire fixture came out of the tile and scalding water began to cascade over Margie's shapely body like she was a statue. The water gushed out from an exposed hot water pipe.

Instead of being wined and dined that night, poor Margie had to be dabbed and salved. She suffered very severe burns and she sued the owner of the apartment house where she lived for injuries she suffered.

"As my landlord," complained Margie in court, "he had a duty to protect me against being attacked by his property."

"I had no reason to know the water faucet has become defective," was the landlord's answer. "Even Margie didn't know it. Otherwise she obviously wouldn't have risked taking a bath. Certainly, I can't be held liable for that."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the landlord pay his torrid tenant for her scalding?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while a landlord has a basic duty to maintain his property and equipment in good repair, he cannot be held liable for injuries caused by a latent defect which is not known to him or reasonably discoverable by him. In this case, concluded the judge, Margie's landlord had no reason to know that the hot water faucet would blow out.

How a girl can tell her parents she wants to join the Army

You're graduating from high school and not going to college. You're not even sure you know what you want to do. Or can do.

Tell your parents you can find out in today's Army. Of the more than 300 good jobs you may do well in. And that we'll pay you well while you learn.

And don't forget the benefits that go with the job. Free meals, housing, medical and dental care. The 30 days paid vacation you'll get every year.

Tell them you can continue your education, too. Take special courses. Even go for your college degree. And that we'll pay for most of it.

And if you need more good reasons, call or see your local Army Representative.

Today's Army wants to join you.

COOKING-UP with judy

Readers,

This week I have selected a really good bean dish for mothers who now have children in school and want to cut down on the daily budget, but not protein. The receipe uses Florida orange juice concentrate to be added after simmering beans, to give them a unique tart-sweet flavor. This also allows the beans to be softer longer.

Also included this week are some super-duper lunchbox treats for those picky eaters ... and why not, mothers do give them a personal touch.

Nice eating ... enjoy the quiet.

Judy S.

ORANGE BAKED BEANS

1 box (1 pound) dried white beans
Water
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
1/4 pound salt pork, cut in 1-inch cubes
1/3 cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt

Soak beans in water to cover overnight. Drain beans and place in large saucepan; add 6 cuts water. Simmer uncovered over low heat 1 1/2 hours or until tender.

Turn beans with liquid into bean pot or 2-quart casserole. Add 1/2 cup additional water and remaining ingredients; mix well.

Why is it that the only time you're out of liquor is when you've just offered somebody a drink?

that the only time an appliance breaks down is over a holiday?

that the only time your hair looks nice is when you've no place to go?

that the only time you leave your beds unmade or dishes in the sink you get company?

that the only time a child gets sick is on Sunday?

that the only time you find the dress you really want you don't have the money to buy it?

that the only time you have the money to buy a special dress with you can't find one?

that the only time you really feel great there's nothing to do?

that the only time your child will eat vegetables is at the neighbors?

Could be because it's like I said before, that's the only time I can sit down and start to think that the telephone doesn't ring!!!

Without nectar, there is no honey. A pound of honey may hold the essence of two million blossoms. Bees require every bit of their renowned energy to gather it. Even in regions where flowers abound, a bee colony may fly 37,000 trips and log 50,000 miles to produce just one pound of honey.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We have your letter to Gary Taylor relative to questions raised by your "Morning Coffee Drinkers." As he is presently attending a conference in Brazil, we will answer for him. Our reply is a bit overdue because your letter first went to Beltsville, Maryland.

There were two reasons for keeping the price ceiling on beef. One, it was believed inadvisable to remove the ceilings on all meats at one time. That would allow the readjustment to be spread out over a longer period. Two, beef prices were selected for the delay in removal because it was believed that the underlying pressures were less on beef. Beef involves a longer production period. There are more alternative methods of producing beef. And, per capita consumption is twice as large for beef as for pork (116 pounds versus 73 pounds). Ten years ago the figures were beef 85 pounds, pork 62 pounds, and we thought we were wellfed.

Incidentally, the per capita consumption rates are meat 175 pounds, poultry 50 pounds, fish 14 pounds, total 235 pounds. The total converts to nearly two- thirds of a pound per day for every man, woman, and child, including babes- in-arms. And besides that each can have an egg for breakfast. And we talk about shortages, which there are in the economic sense because some consumers want and have the money to buy more than their share.

With respect to costs of cattle feed, the television commentator may have been looking only at corn prices, but even then his statement was exaggerated; Chicago no. 2 yellow corn prices have been:

August 15	$3.24
July 16	2.54
June 15	2.28
May 15	2.06
April 16	1.65
March 15	1.58

The hog - corn price ratio (bushels of corn to buy 100 pounds of live hogs) has changed over time as nonfeed costs have become an increasing portion of the total cost of producing hogs. A ratio of 10 was about the pivot point for expansion versus contraction in the year 1940. In recent years, the pivotal ratio has been just under 20. The ratio on Tuesday, August 28 was 20 (Omaha hogs at $52, Chicago corn at $2.59). These were the only recent prices available to us. A relevant factor, of course, is the price of feeder pigs. We have heard of instances where 40- pound pigs brought $40 each. Our idea is that hog producers are not expanding as much as they told us in June they would, nor as much as we had projected they might.

We hope these comments "fuel" the dialogue of the coffee drinkers for several mornings.

Sincerely,
LYLE P. SCHERTZ

Dear Editor:

I've seen this column used as a sounding board for almost any subject except this one: I hope will soon come to light as it would benefit a large portion of people whom sometimes society forgets they even exist. I am speaking of: "THE CRUSADE TO ELIMINATE STREET AND ARCHITECTURAL BARRIERS FOR THE DISABLED AND THE SENIOR CITIZENS".

How many people as they step upon a crub, ascend or descend a flight of stairs, stop to think how would I make it if I had to use crutches or be in a wheelchair? The answer is simple I couldn't!

How disappointing for a person not to be able to enter his favorite department store, pay his own bills, see a movie, and attend church. To use my own quote "WE'RE NOT DEAD WE ARE ONLY CRIPPLE".

I have just returned from Columbia, Missouri, There all the streets have ramps on street intersections accessible to these people. These ramps are very inexpensive to construct at the approximately $64.84 a pair.

Let us in our beloved Southeast Missouri, show the Northerners we can keep up with their progress.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

In the month of July my son was fined for underage drinking. Besides the fine he had to pick up cans and trash along a black top road. I helped him to pick up cans and trash and we had 4 large piles. When we got done I called the sheriff's office and told them the cans were ready to be picked up. Well the cans haven't been picked up and the cans are scattered all along the road. It looks worse now than it did before we picked them up.

Commission says center should split

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Commission on Higher Education Monday reaffirmed its position that the College Residence Center at Independence be split up into a junior college for the lower grades and the upper division instruction turned over to the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

The decision was opposed by a delegation from Independence, which wants a continuous four-year operation, operated by UMKC.

It was learned that Gov. Christopher S. Bond has been asked to include in his budget for next year $1 million in state support for the residence center, should it continue to be operated by Central Missouri State University at Warrensburg.

Rep. Clarence Heflin, D-Indpendence, said that he had been told it would cost the University of Missouri $10 million to set up a new college in Independence.

Bond has favored the complete turnover to the University of Missouri or retention of the center by CMSU. It was reported by commission staff members that any withdrawal of appropriations affecting the residence center would amount to more than $1 million.

The withdrawal has been discussed since it was disclosed in legislative committee hearings that state aid has mistakenly gone to continuing education, including the Independence center, for several years.

THE PLEASURES OF CROS-COUNTRY SKIING
By Morten Lund
(Flare XL128/$2.95
195 pp)

Morten Lund's THE PLEASURES OF CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING, now available in an Avon Flare edition, is a portable handbook to the sport that is fast outpacing downhill skiing in popularity. It provides complete instructions on how and where to do it, what equipment you need, and how much it costs. Cross- country skiing is the perfect spring sport and the author, editor of Ski Magazine, even provides picnicking suggestions.

The predatory female angler fish can swallow a fish as long as itself. It is only three inches long, but when swallowing fish that long its stomach swells out like a balloon.
